Advanced Studio Art

Mr. Daniel – vdaniel@helenaschools.org

Welcome to Art 3! This goal of this course is for you to grow as an artist through:

- Personal exploration and developing your voice or style
- Focus on a theme and explore that theme through multiple artworks to create a small body of work
- Experimenting with different media as a means of communication and expression
- Exploring art movements in art history and connect respond to them through art and/or discussion
- Researching contemporary artists working today and respond to their work
- Verbalizing how the elements and principles of design are used in your art as well as the art of classmates and professionals
- Help yourself and classmates grow through respectful critique designed to help you reflect and respond to your creative choices

Reaching Me

Feel free to email / TEAMS message anytime and I'll try to get back to you quickly. If it's after school hours I might get back to you that evening, but it will probably be the next day.

Grading/ Assessment

- Learning in Art is mainly project based. Each project will have a rubric or specific criteria that you will be graded on.
- You may make edits or improvements to your art to improve your grade
- If you need extra time on a project, please consult me. Late projects may be docked points
- I will try to update grades weekly, but many times art projects last multiple weeks. In that scenario grades will be updated within a week of turning in the project.

Class expectations during a pandemic

The last several years have been the craziest most unpredictable years of my life and it is my sincere hope this year is more normal; however, it will still be a turbulent this and people may be out of school for quarantine or sickness more than a pre-pandemic year. I promise to be reasonable and flexible with my grading and expectations of you and I expect you to be patient and flexible with the ever-evolving situation surrounding this pandemic. In return I expect you to be self-motivated. You're in Art 3, so I assume you really like art. If you're at home working please put in as much effort as you would if a teacher was in the room with you.

I love teaching art even in these stressful times and I hope I can inspire you to learn and grow as an artist. It's my goal to get to know you as an artist as well as an individual. Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or just need someone to chat with or vent to. Thanks, I wish you the best for 2021!

-Mr. Daniel
